College Board National Recognition Program

The College Board National Recognition Program awards academic honors to high performing students to help them stand out on their college and scholarship applications.

- 1 Share on social media. Our templates make it easy to announce awardees on your platforms.
- 2 Plan for your next assembly. Our toolkit includes slides you can use to recognize awardees.
- 3 Contact your local media. Our toolkit has a press release template so your local community can celebrate the news with you.
- 4 Get creative. There are so many ways to spotlight National Recognition Program awardees through in-school celebrations, morning announcements, your school paper or newsletter, and more.

In schools nationwide, eligible students of all backgrounds can claim one or more awards:
